4 Easy Steps to Keep Your Accreditation Updated and Relevant

1

Arrange an annual review of the next 12 months of your deliverables to measure the outcomes of work that will be actioned for all the processes and procedures that have been put in place for the passed accreditation achieved.

2

Finding a problem is one thing; however, determining where the problem is coming from and how big the issue is another. By having something in place to deal with the situation, will avoid lots of time and headache, allowing your business to continue running smoothly as it should.

3

Once you have identified where the area of concern lies, determine what has changed with the business. Investigating your internal and external factors may be a contribution of your non-conformance; however, it will undoubtedly determine your next steps - Results.

4

Once you have identified a clear roadmap on how to implement the changes to ensure that your business is back in control, you need to determine who will take the lead and oversee the changes. JVR Consultancy will, of course, support you throughout, we won't leave your side and will always be on call to help. However, an internal person must be identified to take the lead.
